CHAPTER V

CONSLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

5.1 Conclusion

The Electronic English Vocabulary Module developed through 4-D (Four Door) model. Which is consisted four stage such as Define, Design, Develop, and Disseminate. Although, this study is skipped testing steps at developing stage, after considering the time, condition and situation.

Based on research, the researcher made electronic English vocabulary module for assisting any person that wanted to learn Microsoft office software. The module made to pdf type. It contain preface, table of content, Guidance, list of word, and reference. Each of word listed in the table, which regulated according to place where the word founded in purpose to make reader easier to find specific tools.

5.2 Suggestion

After conducting this research, the researcher propose some suggestion for teacher, and student that used this module for their teaching and learning program to read the instruction or guidance before reading the material, in purpose to reduce the possibility of confusion when reading the module. Researcher hope this module will help the learning and teaching process more effective.

Moreover, for another researcher. Researchers hopes this research will open the attention to research the specific program. Not only on the basics. The probability of the application of human knowledge is infinite. You just need to find the reason to do it.